

DIRAK Corporate Policy

The development, manufacture and sale of components for latch, hinge and fastening technology for industry are the focus of our company activities. Constant further developments, innovations and the integration of international industry experience contribute to the fact that the state of the art is significantly influenced by DIRAK. As a matter of principle, we use the best available technology as far as this is economically feasible, cost-efficient and technically suitable. Through targeted investments, we ensure the preservation, modernization and further development of the energy efficiency of our plants and facilities.

We want to operate them safely, protect the health of employees, customers and citizens at our sites and avoid harmful effects on the environment or keep them as low as possible.

We carry out programs aimed at the economical use of resources and the avoidance or reduction of environmental pollution. We are constantly working on using energy more efficiently - either by reducing energy consumption or optimising the energy sources used. In this way, we are making our contribution to so-called sustainability.

High-quality products, systematic customer orientation, very good customer service, as well as the organization of an international service and supply network are the main features of our company activities. Thinking and acting in a spirit of partnership characterize our corporate philosophy and our corporate culture.

Personal responsibility, independence, motivation and qualification of our employees are the indispensable prerequisites for our successful corporate development. In doing so, we continuously promote and deepen our employees' awareness of our management system consisting of quality, environmental protection, energy efficiency and occupational safety. All employees are called upon to initiate and support innovations to improve this holistic management system and thus make a significant contribution to our company's success. The promotion of employees is the explicit responsibility of the management. To this end, we set ourselves ambitious targets, monitor progress through a high-performance management system and make the results visible.

The management commits itself and every employee in the company to align its daily activities with the principles of this corporate policy. All activities of our company are in accordance with the relevant legal requirements and at least comply with the regulations of the competent authorities. Compliance with this corporate policy and the continuous improvement of our management system form the basis for trusting cooperation with customers and suppliers and are regularly reviewed internally and by external experts.
